

A New Lateral Neck Mass in a 63-year-old Man with Multi-nodular Goiter

Nguyen Nguyen¹, Daniel Neelon¹, Michael Orestes¹, Mohamed Shakir¹, and Thanh Hoang¹

¹Walter Reed National Military Medical Center

January 7, 2021

Abstract

Described is an atypical presentation of a rare condition. It highlights the importance of thorough algorithm of medical and family history, physical examination, appropriate investigations and perioperative workup and for surgery. This case raises the awareness that a lateral neck mass (or lateral ectopic thyroid mass) can be benign.

Hosted file

Ectopic thyroid tissue in a lateral neck mass.pdf available at <https://authorea.com/users/388006/articles/502867-a-new-lateral-neck-mass-in-a-63-year-old-man-with-multi-nodular-goiter>

