

Context of salinization and adaptation preferences in the coastal areas of Bangladesh:
Bringing together farmers' salinity perspectives into policy to achieve SDGs

Md Aminul Islam^{1a}, Lisa Lobry de Bruyn¹, Richard Koech², and Nigel Warwick¹

¹School of Environmental and Rural Science, University of New England, Australia

² School of Health, Medical and Applied Sciences, Central Queensland University, Australia

Corresponding Author: Md Aminul Islam, University of New England, Australia

Cell: +61426461464

E-mail address: mislam36@myune.edu.au; aminrars@gmail.com

Acknowledgements

This research was the part of PhD project under the School of Environmental and Rural Science, University of New England, Australia. We would like to acknowledge University of New England International Post Graduate Award (UNE IPRA) for the funding of this research. We are thankful to farmers who participated in survey, focus group discussions, all the personnel who participated in key informant interviews, and Upazila Agriculture Officer, Upazila Fisheries Officer of the respective sub-districts, Sub-Assistant Agriculture Officers of the respective blocks and all other staffs of Agriculture Office of the studied sub-districts of Bangladesh.